Interlude - Storm

Clouds grow heavy; thunder goes.
 Rain drives in from the east, its patter falls on the sides of houses.
 Rain can be destructive, wiping out boundary marks.
 But the soil needs care — ecstatic love has sprouts,
 now, and renunciation.
 Let the rain feed both.
 Only the farmer with intelligence actually brings his harvest back to his farmyard.
 He will fill the granary bins, and feed both the wise men and the saints.
